Sacramento day trip Midtown

Why go now: Sacramento's happening Midtown has spawned perfect-for-December hot spots with great eats mixed right in with the shopping, so you can warm up and refuel as you go. Where is it, again? On Sac's easy-to-navigate street grid, Midtown stretches from 16th to 29th Streets; businesses cluster on J, K, and L. Not your grandpa's Sacramento: In Midtown, the city's suited-up political life gives way to an unbuttoned art and literary scene. Prezies worth picking up: Treasures old and new, like vintage wear (I. Magnin silk blouse, Bakelite bangles) at well-curated Bows & Arrows (1712 L St.; 916/444-3606) or any record you can think of at the Beat (1700 J St.; thebeat.sacramento.com). For hostess gifts or stocking-stuffers, hit sweet, petite Ginger Elizabeth Chocolates (closed Sun; 1801 L St., Ste. 60; gingerelizabeth.com) to pick up gorgeous infused bonbons or a salty cocoa-nib brittle bar. Break time: Soothe the holiday nerves with a steaming cup at mod Hina's Tea (2319 K St.; hinastea.com), with more than 350 teas.

1. Almost like shopping in Paris

SHOP Find irresistible objets from the City of Light at Le Petit Paris: fringed Just Campagne handbags, rainbow-hued Laguiole steak knives, delicate Antoine & Lili cocktail dresses, beautifully made wooden Plan toys, and chic dolls.

SNACK In the adjacent cafe, lounge on a baroque divan with a croque monsieur, meticulously pulled espresso, or chewy-crisp macarons. $; 1221 19th St.; lepetitparis.us

Day trip

2. Wine and dine

SHOP Need the perfect bottle to take to a holiday party? The stacked racks at 58 Degrees & Holding Co.—and the helpful staff—will steer you to the right choice from more than 750 bottles, whether it's one of the under-$20 featured wines of the week or a vintage Jacquesson Champagne.

SNACK In the adjoining wine bar, you can order a flight (all the wines are available by the taste, glass, or bottle) and small plates like a bruschetta trio. For just $20, the three-course Daily 58 menu is a steal. $; 1217 18th St.; 58degrees.com

3. A touch of la dolce vita

SHOP At Hot Italian, flip through racks of Italian-designed cycling and motorcycle wear (think Dainese tops and modish jackets) and ogle the Vespas and other scooters.

SNACK A few pizza-topped tables amid the racks lead to a dining room where Naples-style pies come blister-crusting out of the gorgeous tiled oven. We're partial to the Magnini, lush with smoked salmon and mascarpone, and the sweet Murino, with gorgonzola dolce and pears. $$; 1627 16th St.; hotitalian.net

4. Something for everyone

SHOP Hit Midtown's epicenter at 20th and J for a collection of urbane shops and eateries housed in the new, open-air MARRS complex. You'll find stretchy gear at Asha Yoga and stocking-stuffers from retro candy to hundreds of magazines at compulsively browsable Newsbeat.

SNACK Go for bubbles and bites at vibey Lounge on 20, fresh-squeezed margaritas and tortilla soup at updated taqueria Azul, or a cheese and pepperoni at Luigi's Slice (a new outpost of a local 1950s pizza institution). 1050 20th St.; marrs-sactown.com

Getting to Midtown

From U.S. 50, exit at 15th St.; head north on 16th. From I-5, exit on J St. and head east.

Leaving so soon? Check out the after-dark scene

STAY FOR SUPPER
Stylish Ella Dining Room and Bar is a spacious see-and-be-seen spot on once-moribund K Street. Chef Kelly McCown brings a fresh sensibility to the small-plates menu; don't skip precision-mixed cocktails at the bar. $$; closed Sun; 1131 K St.; 916/443-3772.

DINNER AND A SHOW
A midcentury-style makeover turned the Cosmopolitan Cabaret into an intimate theater, with jazzy shows and small-plates table service from the adjacent Cosmo Café. Upstairs is buzzy nightclub Social. $; 1000 K St.; saccosmo.com

SPEAKEASY CHIC
For vintage flair, head to the Shady Lady Saloon, which pours Jazz Age cocktails like the Hemingway Daiquiri in a cool '20s-look setting (red cut-velvet wallpaper, historic photos of slightly racy flappers). No secret knock required. 1409 R St.; 916/231-9121.

GO FOR A WALK
The Second Saturday art walk draws crowds to the best of the city's art scene. For haute photography, duck into Viewpoint Gallery (2015 J St.; viewpointgallery.org). Street-booth folk art and installations are everywhere. Start at 20th and J Streets; 2nd-sat.com

Make it an overnight

A few blocks from Midtown lies one of Sacramento's newest hotels, which also happens to be its most fun. The Citizen Hotel, in a thoroughly updated 1925 building, riffs on government culture with political cartoons in every room. It's primarily a business hotel, so you'll find steep weekend discounts handy for shopping trips. Don't miss breakfast with housemade sausage at Citizen's eatery, Grange. Rooms from $139; citizenhotel.com
